LAKE VILLA DAYS WERE BIG SUCCESS

Great Heart in Thrilling Attempt to Smash High Jump Record

L. V. WINS BALL GAMES

Lake Villa days attendance surpassed all expectations, and for two days the horse show grounds were filled to capacity. Each day started with a base ball game and on both days the grandstands were well filled, and machines lined up the several hundred feet down the sidelines. Lake Villa was fortunate in winning both days, on Friday defeating Antioch and on Saturday winning from State line. Immediately following the ball games the steeplechase was presented. The steeplechase has never been attempted at the Lake Villa days, and proved to be very popular and interesting. The race was made over a two mile course.

Great interest was manifested in the attempt of Great Heart to break his previous world's record, Saturday. The jump was placed at 8 feet 1 1/2 inches, one inch above his record, but after two trials, the last one in which he knocked down the barriers and narrowly escaped injury to both himself and the rider, the attempt was given up.

The events on both days were all staged on schedule time and considering the amount of work attached to a program of this nature, the management is to be highly commended.

Lake Villa Wins Ball Game

The Antioch-Lake Villa game on Friday morning proved a very interesting one to the spectators. At the beginning of the fourth inning Lake Villa had a five-run lead, when Antioch scored six runs on four hits and two passes, knocking Davison off the mound, and giving Antioch a one-run lead. The game saw-sawed back and forth until the last of the ninth inning, with Antioch at the big end of a 9 to 8 score, when Lake Villa started things going. Elmer hit the ball to center for three bases and then Kingsley hit one so far that he had time to cross the plate before the ball was returned to the infield, ending the game in favor of Lake Villa with a 10-9 score.

HAVE STARTED TO LAY CEMENT ON NEW ROAD

The Rutledge Construction company started laying cement Wednesday at the south limit of the village. This work will be pushed ahead as fast as possible due to a two and a half days delay from shortage of material. The company expects to lay 275 feet a day.

Will Double Anti to Win Little Boston Girl

The pathetic need of the little Boston girl who signs herself "M. A. C.," who will wed a man for $1,000 to save her debt-ridden family from poverty, has brought an answer from a generous Illinoisian who offers her two thousand instead of one.

"I can give your mother $2,000 and give you a grand home," wrote Paul Glassman, Area, Ill., And I am not too tall or not too fat and hope I can fill the bill."

This man is but one of twelve who stand ready to marry "M. A. C." August 19 for the price that will bring happiness to her beloved family.

Unclaimed Letters

There are unclaimed letters at the Antioch postoffice for Miss E. Burnham, Miss Jane Coleman, Mrs. John D. Friedt, Mrs. G. Gerberich, Chas. J. Gillespie, Miss J. J. Gral, Mrs. E. J. Jacob, Mr. Meniel Lucas, Mr. Harry Prenna and Antioch R. R. 3, Box 9.

Origin of the Name "Old Hickory." Gen. Andrew Jackson first was called "Tough," then "Tough as Hickory," and lastly "Old Hickory." Another story is that in 1818, when engaged in war with the Creek Indians, he fell short of supplies, and fed his men on hickory nuts.

20 Years Ago in Antioch

Thursday, August 21, 1902

The Chicago limited passenger train No. 4 on the Wisconsin Central railway, bound for St. Paul and Minneapolis, was derailed at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday morning about fifty feet from the station at Fremont. Nine persons were quite badly injured and all passengers on the train were badly shaken up.

J. C. James, Jr., is attending the democratic convention in Chicago, today.

Mrs. Wm. Kelly and son, left on Wednesday for a three weeks visit with her sister, Mrs. Robert Cretney, at Ridgeway, Wis.

The Barker Lumber Co. has been awarded the contract to furnish the stone for the bridges that are to be built at Channel and Mill creek.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Golden and children, of Hainsville, and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ellison and baby, and Miss Maud Turner, of Grayslake, and Dr. W. D. Wright, of Lake Villa, were callers at the home of Wm. Turner, Sunday.

In this issue of the News will be found the sidewalk ordinance as passed by the village board at their meeting, August 12. This is the right step in the right direction and the board are to be commended for their action in this much needed improvement. The time has arrived for Antioch to wake up and place our village in the front ranks, or "go way back and sit down." Let all pull together for the good of Antioch.

Dr. and Mrs. Taylor, of Millburn, were Antioch visitors Thursday afternoon.

The Sands Creamery failure hit the farmers of Boone county hard. Between $30,000 and $40,000 is estimated to be owing to the patrons of the different plants. When news of the failure came the statement was made that the embarrassment was only temporary.

LAKE VILLA DEFEATS FORESTERS IN 2d GAME

Lake Villa defeated the strong Forester team of Waukegan in the second game of their three game series by a score of 9 to 5 Sunday at Waukegan. The Lake Villa team got to Bebe Adamski's fast delivery in the first and second innings, driving him to the bench, Emil Strobbe replacing him.

The third game will be played Sunday Aug. 27 at Waukegan.

Lake Villa will play the reorganized Libertyville team Sunday at Lake Villa. Davison will pitch, and many from this section will travel south to see the battle.

STRIKE DELAYS ROAD WORK IN COUNTY

A number of big road construction jobs in Lake county have been halted during the past week as a result of the contractors being unable to get materials due to poor delivery on the various railroads which are being hampered by strike conditions.

Among the contractors who have been forced to quit work in this county are George R. Wade, who has the Lake Villa job, the Eclipse Construction company, which has the Libertyville-Area job, and Fred Nelson, who had stopped the latter part of the week on Rand road, near Wauconda. Dispatches from Springfield show that conditions all over the state are becoming serious.

PETITIONS CIRCULATED

It is reported that a petition is being circulated around town to protest the assessment levy as issued on the property fronting on the new road. A meeting has been held and rumors say that funds will be raised to obtain legal advice.

Spirit Revelations

"I do think," said Sir Thomas Browne, "that many mysteries ascribed to our own inventions have been for those noble revelations of spirits for those friendly regalia unto their fellow natures on earth."

When You'd Weigh Nothing

If the earth turned round in about an hour and a half instead of in 24 hours, things would have practically no weight at the equator. Present speed at the equatorial region is 1,000 miles an hour. At 17,000 miles could just keep on the ground.

Chicago Daily Journal Takes Rap at Small, Stratton, Fields, et al.

In the Tuesday evening edition of the Chicago Journal, Joe D. Salkeld had the following to say of Governor Small and Lake County politics, including our local resident, J. B. Fields:

Ordinarily the appointments of a deputy game warden doesn't cause the slightest ripple on the political waters of the state, but republicans of the anti-Small-Thompson camp are making much of one that they hear was recently made.

The new game warden—Larry Sherman once dubbed them "rabbit shepherds"—is J. B. Fields. His home is in Antioch and Antioch is in Lake county, not far from Lake Villa, where Fred Lundin has his country estate. Mr. Field once drove a taxicab in Antioch. He was at work one day putting summer cottages in shape for occupancy when a deputy sheriff arrived on the scene. The deputy had a summons for Mr. Fields to report in the Lake county circuit court before Judge Edwards for jury service in the trial of Governor Small on the indictment charging conspiracy to cheat and defraud the state out of a couple of million dollars.

Mr. Fields responded. He answered all questions satisfactorily and was one of the first four jurors chosen. Throughout the trial Mr. Fields occupied the first seat in the back row in the jury box. He was one of the youngest jurors among the twelve. He had a perpetual smile and always seemed to be enjoying himself. Mr. Fields was one of the seven jurors who packed their grips, drew their pay and got ready to go home on the morning that State's Attorney Mortimer of Springfield began the prosecution's last address to the jury.

Asked by the circuit clerk if they weren't a little premature in drawing their pay, others of the seven laughed when one of them replied: "Not a bit. We will be away from here before 4 o'clock."

They were. The case went to the jury about 2 o'clock and an hour and thirty-two minutes later the verdict of not guilty was in.

ton lives in Lake county. He was there throughout the Small trial. Governor Small gave him his job at Mr. Lundin's request. They said Stratton "knew everybody in Lake county," which may have included Fields.

Judged from appearances, Mr. Fields should make a good game warden. It is reported that his salary is bigger than that of some of the other "rabbit shepherds" who have been on the job since Mr. Stratton took hold of the job; that it pays considerably more than driving an Antioch taxi or fixing up summer cottages.

An unconfirmed report in republican circles unfriendly to the governor is that another of the twelve jurors who acquitted the governor is to have a job in the grain department.

DELINQUENT MUST PAY UP—BRACHER

County Treasurer Roy W. Bracher has announced that he has started the collection of delinquent personal property taxes and that unless the delinquents respond immediately a constable will be sent after them to collect the tax, to which will be added the constable fees.

"In most instances the constable fees will double the personal tax," declared Deputy County Treasurer Ira E. Pearsall.

When the constable is required to make the collection his fees will be collected at the same time, it was explained.

This is the first time that the county treasurer has ever decided to take such drastic steps but so much complaint has come to him about persons who have openly boasted that they would try to evade payment of their personal tax that he feels compelled to make the collections at once, and that if the delinquents are compelled to pay the constable fees they will be more prompt in making payment in the future.

AUTO TURNS TURTLE ON BELVIDERE ROAD

Mrs. Edward Callis of Grayslake was a victim of freshly oiled roads Sunday afternoon when the automobile her husband was driving turned turtle on the Belvidere road, near Green Bay road.

The car, heading west, turned completely over, pinning the woman underneath. Her husband managed to raise it enough so she could pull herself from the wreckage. A passing autoist found them by the side of the automobile and took them to Grayslake at their request. The car had skidded on the freshly oiled pavement, Callis claimed.

Have a Definite Purpose.

Waiting for something to turn up is the world's most expensive habit. There are many geniuses that never arrive anywhere because they have no destination. But to a person, even of small talent, who has a definite purpose all things are possible.

When You'd Weigh Nothing.

If the earth turned round in about an hour and a half instead of in 24 hours, things would have practically no weight at the equator. Present speed at the equatorial region is 1,000 miles an hour. At 17,000 miles could just keep on the ground.

CHAUTAUQUA OPENS FIVE-DAY ENGAGEMENT TONIGHT PROGRAM IS EXCELLENT

DETOUR

Considerable anxiety is manifested by the officials of the village on account of the disregard to detour signs. These signs are placed at points for the purpose of better enabling the contractor to accomplish his work, and the fact that people are riding past these signs and interfering with the work and disturbing surveys has caused the contractor to protest.

Mr. Rutledge is doing his best to keep the roads open for the interest of the village, and his efforts should be appreciated considering the fact that the state law gives him the power to close the road entirely during construction.—Detour.

CHAPTER XII.—Continued.

Ramsey looked dogged. "I'm not going around always arguing about everything when arguin' would just hurt people's feelings about something they're all excited about, and wouldn't do a bit of good in the world—and you know yourself just talk hardly ever settles anything—so I don't—"

"Aha!" Fred cried. "I thought so! Now you listen to me—"

"I won't. I—"

But at this moment they were interrupted. Someone slyly opened a door, and a snowball drolly thrown from without caught Ramsey upon the back of the neck and head, where it flattened and displayed itself as an ornamental star. Shouting fiercely, both boys sprang up, ran to the door, were caught there in a barrage of snowballs, ducked through it in spite of all damage, charged upon a dozen besawetured figures awaiting them and began a mad battle in the blizzard. Some of their opponents treacherously joined them and turned upon the ambushers.

In the dusk the merry conflict waged up and down the snow-covered lawn, and the combatants threw and threw, or surged back and forth, or clenched and toppled over into snowbanks, yet all coming to chant an extemporized battle-cry in chorus, even as the sun might the most wildly.

"Who? Who? Who?" they chanted.

"Who? Who? Who?" they chanted.

"Who? Who? Who?" they chanted.

CHAPTER XIII.

So everywhere over the country, that winter of 1916, there were light-hearted boys skylarking at college, or on the farms; and in the towns the young machinists snowballed one another as they came from the shops; while on this Sunday of the "frat" snow fight probably several hundreds of thousands of youthful bachelors, between the two oceans, went walking, like Ramsey, each with a girl who could forget the weather. Yet boys of nineteen and in the twenties were not light-hearted all the time that winter and that spring and that summer. Most of them knew long, thoughtful moments, as Ramsey did, when they seemed to be thinking not of girls or work or play—nor of anything around them, but of some more vital matter or prospect. And at such times they were grave, but not ungentle.

For the long strain was on the country; underneath all its outward seeming of things going on as usual there shook a deep vibration, like the air trembling to vast organ pipes in diapasons too profound to reach the ear as sound; one felt, not heard, thunder in the ground under one's feet. The succession of diplomatic notes came to an end after the torpedoing of the Sussex; and at last the tricky ruling Germans in Berlin gave their word to murder no more, and people said, "This means peace for America, and all is well for us," but everybody knew in his heart that nothing was well for us, that there was no peace.

They said, "All is well," while that thunder in the ground never ceased—it grew deeper and heavier till all America shook with it and it became slowly audible as the voice of the old American soil, a soil wherein lay those who had defended it aforetime, a soil that bred those who would defend it again, for it was theirs; and the meaning of it—Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness—was theirs, and theirs to defend. And they knew they would defend it, and that more than the glory of a Nation was at stake. The Freedom of Man was at stake. So, gradually, the sacred thunder reached the ears of the young men and gave them those deep moments that came to them whether they sat in the classroom or the counting-room, or walked with the plow, or stood to the machine, or behind the ribbon counter. Thus the thunder shook them and tried them and slowly came into their lives and changed everything for them.

Hate of the Germans was not bred; but a contempt for what Germany had shown in lieu of a national heart; a contempt as mighty and as profound as the resolve that the German way and the German will should not prevail in America, nor in any country of the world that would be free. And when the German Kaiser laid his command upon America, that no American should take his ship upon the free seas, death being the penalty for any who disobeyed, then the German Kaiser got his answer, not only to this new law he had made for us, but to many other thoughts of his. Yet the answer was for some time delayed.

There was a bitter Sunday, and its bitterness went everywhere, to every place in the whole world that held high and generous hearts. Its bitterness came to the special meeting in the "frat hall," where there were hearts, indeed, of that right sort, and one of them became vocal in its bitterness. This was the heart of Fred Mitchell, who was now an authority, being president of the Junior class, chairman of the Prom committee, and other things pleasant to be and to live for at his age.

"For me, brothers," he said, "I think I'd a great deal rather have been shot through the head than heard the news from Washington today! I tell you, I've spent the meanest afternoon I ever did in my life, and I guess it's been pretty much the same with all of us. The worst of it is, it looks as though there isn't a thing in the world we can do. The country's been betrayed by a few blatherskites and boneheads that had the power to do it, and all we can do—we've just got to stand it. But there's some Americans that aren't just standing it, and I want to tell you a lot of 'em are men from the universities, just like us. They're over there right now; they haven't said much—they just packed up and went. They're flying for France and for England and for Canada; they're fighting under every flag on the right side of the western front; and they're driving ambulances at Verdun and ammunition trucks at the Somme. Well, there's going to be a lot more American boys on all these jobs mighty soon, on account of what those men did in congress today. If they won't give us a chance to do something under our own flag, then we'll have to go and do it under some other flag; and I want to tell you I'm one of those going to go! I'll stick it out in college up to Easter, and then if there's still no chance to go under the Stars and Stripes I'll maybe have to go under the flag my great-grandfather fought against in 1776, but, anyhow, I'll go!"

It was in speaking to Ramsey of this declaration that Dora said Fred was a "dangerous firebrand." They were taking another February walk, but the February was February, 1917; and the day was dry and sunny. "It's just about a year ago," she said.

"What is?" Ramsey asked.

"That first time we went walking. Don't you remember?"

"Oh, that day? Yes, I remember it was snowing."

"And so cold and blowy!" she added.

"It seems a long time ago. I like walking with you, Ramsey. You're so quiet and solid—I've always felt I could talk to you just anyhow I pleased, and you wouldn't mind. I'll miss these walks with you when we're out of college."

He chuckled. "That's funny!"

"Why?"

"Because we've only taken four besides this: two last year, and another week before last, and another last week. This is only the fifth."

"Good gracious! Is that all? It seemed to me we'd gone ever so often!" She laughed. "I'm afraid you won't think that seems much as if I'd liked going, but I really have. And, by the way, you've never called on me at all. Perhaps it's because I've forgotten to ask you."

"Oh, no," Ramsey said, and scuffed his shoes on the path, presently explaining rather huskily that he "never was much of a caller"; and he added, "or anything."

"Well, you must come if you ever care to," she said, with a big-sister graciousness. "The Dorm chaplain sits there, of course, but ours is a jolly one and you'd like her. You've probably met her—Mrs. Hastings?—when you've called on other girls at our old shop."

Tearing Down Old Church

Local interest has been centered this week in the tearing down of Wilmot's first house of worship—the Congregational church. Recently Ferdinand Beck purchased the property from the Morgan estate and is removing the church building to make room for a modern brick residence. Local historians say the original lot was part of a grant of land given by the government to Lewis Hatch March 9, 1839. September 9, 1850, Mr. Hatch sold the lot with other property to A. W. Benham, the founder of the village.

Wilmot first sprang into existence in 1844 when Asabel Benham and his family settled here. Mr. Benham called the town Gilead but at the suggestion of J. Wilbur in 1848 it was changed to Wilmot after the famous Wilmot Provis.

Lots 1 and 2 which were to be occupied for many years by Wilmot's first church were deeded by Asabel Benham and his wife Elizabeth to the Congregational society on June 6, 1856, although the congregation was organized in 1853, with the following members. Mr. and Mrs. Adino Udell and daughters, Mrs. Mizella and Mrs. Reeves, Mrs. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Bullen, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Udell, Mr. and Mrs. A. Benham, Mrs. Dalue and Mrs. McIntyre. Mr. Bullen and Mr. Benham were two of the first officers, being deacon and trustee respectively. In 1854 a subscription was started and a frame building costing $1,600 capable of accommodating 250 persons, was erected on the land donated by Mr. Benham. The first minister was a Rev. George W. Thompson, who came here in 1853. Of interest to many will be the statement made by one of the older residents of the village that the first and only wedding solemnized in the church was that of Samuel Orvis and Alvina Sanborn on Sunday morning, November 4, 1867. The bride was very charming in a grey outfit and they were attended by a brother of the bride, John Sanborn, and a sister of the groom, Emma Orvis. The ceremony took place directly following the usual morning services.

Carpenters at work on the building at present remarked at the solid oak timbers and boards that were used in the construction and they hope to locate a corner stone containing papers that may disclose more of the history of the second oldest town of the county.

Tank Cars Prove Need of Contract

Glass-lined milk tank cars now successfully operating in the Chicago dairy district mean that producers in this territory must organize in a sane marketing plan in order to protect themselves. Otherwise the tank car, by going out into distant parts, will be able to import milk at low butter fat prices.

Three such cars have been in operation between Chicago, Avalon, Wis., and Spring Grove, Ill. Avalon is 89 miles distant and Spring Grove is 55. It is said that the tank has already proved itself practicable for distances of several hundred miles, and experiments are now being conducted in an effort to ship fluid milk from one side of the continent to the other. The Wieland Dairy company recently placed three cars in operation.

The manufacturers advertise the car as a great boon to the fluid milk business, because of increasing the distance at which dealers can go out and obtain fluid milk for their market. This tank system places the entire milk supply of northern Wisconsin, Iowa or southern Illinois and Indiana at the very doors of the dealer.

Tank Cars Threaten Market

If the producers in the immediate Chicago territory, therefore, are to receive prices better than butter-fat prices, they must take immediate steps. The only remedy, it is pointed out, is to obtain contracts with the city dealers to protect the producers in the true dairy district. One of the weaknesses of each milk pool in the past around Chicago, was in the fact that high prices meant a glutted market with milk from outside the usual zone. The only way to stop a glutted market is an iron bound contract between the producer and dealer, under the committee of nine plan, whereby the dealer is supplied only with enough milk for his needs.

Unless the milk producers in the Chicago territory organize at once, the tank car will develop greater competition in various communities several hundred miles distant from Chicago. At the present time it would be impossible for Chicago to secure enough milk for its purposes outside of the present dairy district, and now, therefore, is the time when producers must organize to counteract the losses which distant running tank cars can cause them.

Cars Fully Equipped

It is declared that transportation and labor costs have been reduced by tank cars, and further that the milk is kept in ideal condition from the time it is pumped into the cars at the country station until it is pumped out at the city plant.

The three cars in use in Chicago have refrigerating devices with iron bunkers in each, and are equipped with two 3,000-gallon steamless glass enameled tanks. Each tank, as well as the car itself, is lighted by electricity, and is equipped with a gauge showing the contents, a thermometer and an agitator driven by an electric motor. The car is also equipped with a brine cooling device, an auxiliary to the ice refrigerating system. Inlets and outlets to the two tanks are made through the sides of the cars so that pumping in and out of the tank is possible while the car is tightly closed.

Before Them.

An English lecturer, expatiating on the nature of man, remarked that one point of distinction between human beings and the lower animals consisted in capacity for progress. "Man," he exclaimed, "is a progressive being, other creatures are stationary. Take, for example, the ass. Always and everywhere it is the same creature. You have never seen, and you never will see, a more perfect ass than you see at the present moment."—Boston Transcript.

Square Deal Always Best.

Slipping things over on the other fellow yields but momentary satisfaction. Smartness of this kind always carries with it a feeling that you have invited treatment of the same sort. Only from giving the square deal comes genuine and lasting satisfaction.—Exchange.

System is Above All.

If I were asked what is one of the best mottoes for a young man to adopt, I should say: "Be systematic." There is nothing like system. It should be evident in everything one does—in one's mode of living, in study, and in business.—Sir H. Woodman Burbidge.

Seeker After Knowledge.

Martha had never been around horses, but knew all about automobiles. The butter-and-egg woman drove a horse and one day Martha, after looking at the horse with eyes full of curiosity, said to the afore-said woman: "Mrs. Duncan, where do you oil your horse?"

Hardly Complimentary.

"Thank you so much for your song, my dear," said the elderly woman when the daughter of the house where she was visiting had finished her solo. "It took me back to my childhood days on my father's farm, and when I listened to your voice I seemed to hear the old gate creaking in the wind."

Church School ..... 8:45 A. M.
Holy Eucharist ..... 10:00 A. M.
(3d Sunday of month)

Last Sunday the Ninth Sunday after Trinity, the Early Eucharist was especially well attended. It is rapidly becoming more and more popular, and it is right that such should be. It is held in the early morning before the heat and dust of the day, and it is truly delightful to worship God at that time.

The Church School attendance was good last Sunday, but there are still many who ought to be more regular. At Morning Prayer the sermon subject was the story of the Unjust Steward. To him was committed a trust, namely that of caring for his master's property. When he was accused of having wasted his master's goods he very cleverly called his master's debtors to him and cut down their debts, thus incurring their friendship. He did this that when he was put out of his stewardship they might receive him into their houses. The narrative of this story ends with the words "And the lord (master of the estate) commended the unjust steward, because he had done wisely; for the children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light. And I say unto you, make to yourselves friends of the mammon of unrighteousness that, when ye fail, they may receive you into everlasting habitations." This is one of the few cases in which Jesus used sarcasm in his teachings and the sarcasm here used is of a most striking character. The criminal cleverness of the Unjust Steward was to be admired, because it was farsightedness. It was, however, of a negative character. Christians must have just as keen wisdom and farsightedness, but it must be of the positive character. The Christian Church is the institution which has given the world the Christian Religion, and those who belong to it and support it are farsighted. Those who take all advantage of it, and of the accumulated benefits to civilization that it has given to the world, and yet do not attend nor support their local church, have spiritual and religious shortsightedness. They want to get everything from it but give nothing in return. They are not helping the future of the Christian religion. Many have the idea that they can be Christian without belonging to and supporting the Christian Church any more than you can be a Mohammedan without belonging to the Mohammedan Church. To everyone of us has been committed the charge of the Christian Religion, and we will some day be held to account for our stewardship, as was the Unjust Steward. How are we going to answer the question: "Give an account of thy stewardship, for thou mayest no longer be steward?" That is the eternal question.

On Wednesday of this week the Ladies Guild of St. Ignatius' are holding their annual bazaar and all are invited to attend. There will be a very fine display of fancy work and lots of good home cooking. A cafeteria supper will be served from 4 to 6 p. m. and it promises to be the best yet. The bazaar opens at 10:30 in the morning and will be held in the Antioch opera house, at the corner of Main and Lake streets.

Next Sunday is the Tenth Sunday after Trinity and also the third Sunday in the month. Consequently the services will be as follows: Church School at 8:45 and Holy Eucharist and Sermon at 10. Please note that there is no Early Eucharist on this Sunday. The Rev. Father Batt, of Libertyville, will be in charge as usual. Come and bring your friends. Father Batt is a man of wide experience and exceptional ability at preaching. As Father Batt does not preach in Antioch very often these days it is a rare opportunity.

FOR THOSE WE LOVE

AT CRYSTAL SUNDAY
Bernice Arnold (Betty Compson), a motherless small town girl and a great lover of music, jumps into the lake to save a lad of ten from a supposed drowning. She herself is nearly drowned by the hoax, but is rescued by Trix Uner (Lon Chaney), a local character, and dealer in stud poker at Frank's. Bernice shows her gratitude by walking home beside Trix, which starts gossip.

Her father, a bookkeeper in a local factory, hears of the accident while he is putting eighty dollars in the safe. Unwittingly he thrusts his employers' money into his pocket and rushes home. That night he puts the money under his pillow. His son Jimmy, a typical small town sport, steals the money and quickly loses it in a card game.

The next morning the money is found missing and Bernice wrings a confession from her brother Jimmy, and persuades her father to believe that he mislaid the money. She hastens to Trix Uner's room in a disreputable hotel, and asks him to return the money. Trix won but little of the money, so she goes to plead with Frank. Trix follows her, fearing harm from Frank. He hears Bernice cry for help, bursts into Frank's room and gives him a beating.

Frank, to get square, sends a cop to pinch Jimmy, but Trix hears of it and hides Jimmy in Vida Brown's house, a questionable resort. The house is destroyed by fire, so Bernice gives shelter to her brother.

One night Jimmy Trix and Bert decide to rob Frank's home, and recover eighty dollars to make the elder Arnold happy. In making their escape, after the robbery, Jimmy was shot by Frank. The youth dies, and cuses Jimmy of the crime he would swear that he saw Frank kill the boy. On the stand at the inquest, Frank swears that Jimmy died while trying to intercept the burglars. Jimmy's elder Arnold had recovered the mislaid money, fairly electrifies the Fletcher, and her sweetheart, in the spring.

SUNDAY SERVICES:
Sunday School ..... 9:45
Morning Service ..... 11:00
Epworth League ..... 7:00
Evening Service ..... 7:45

Some more new scholars in Sunday school last Sunday. Let the good work go on! Why should not everybody go to Sunday school? They should.

We shall greatly miss our good friends the Benjamins, who are returning to their home in Austin from their summer cottage on Lake Marie.

All Christians in Antioch and vicinity are being urged to stand out with earnest determination against the ruinous vice of Sabbath-breaking in all its forms, by letting everybody know that their attitude is that of Christ Himself, namely, that the Sabbath day, with all its precious hours, is for nothing but religion, except as other things that are strictly necessary. It is being pointed out that the people who do not profess to be religious have little or no respect for the church or for religion so long as they see members of churches breaking the Sabbath by giving themselves to pleasure-seeking, Sunday amusements, Sunday papers, or to buying and selling on Sunday.

The message of last Sunday morning was upon the power and richness of the really converted life. Quoting the Psalmist's statement that everything a real man of God does will prosper, the pastor declared that it is absolutely and literally true. He showed that when one is a real Christian, living a really converted life, he will always have God's help and, with that help, will always achieve that thing he starts out for, except in cases where God has a better plan, which will bring greater real prosperity than the plan of the Christian himself. The appeal was for everyone to make sure he is really converted, live that truly glorious work every day, and then really believe that God will make him successful and prosperous and will make all things work together for his good, and thus live the strong life, the rich life, the happy life, the successful life.

Points of Low Humidity.
According to the records of the weather bureau, the lowest relative humidity is found in some parts of Arizona, although it is possible that certain sections of the deserts in southern California, where there are no recording stations, may show lower relative humidities than Arizona.

Cent and Penny.
A cent is a United States coin, equivalent to one-hundredth part of a dollar. A penny is a bronze English coin, equivalent to one-twelfth of a shilling, and, as usually reckoned, worth two cents of United States money. Therefore, it would be one-fiftieth part of a dollar. However, in our colloquial English, we often use the word cent and penny interchangeably, meaning one small copper coin.

Note these New Prices on U.S. Tires

ON July 29, 1922, the lowest prices ever quoted on U.S. Passenger Car Tires went into effect—Royal Cords included. These new prices should give confidence to dealers and car-owners that no lower basis of quality tire prices will prevail.

Bear in mind that these prices apply to the most complete line of quality tires in the world. Remember, too—as you read the following table—that U. S. quality has been positively maintained.

CROPS ALL GOOD RAILWAY BRIDGES, SHOPS DESTROYED

Western Canada Farmers Jubilant Over Prospects.
Harvest in Southwestern Manitoba Expected to Come Close to Bumper Yield of 1915.

Those who have friends in Western Canada will be anxious to learn of the conditions there, and will be interested in knowing that generally the crop prospect is very favorable. Cutting and harvesting have become general, and it is anticipated that the results which will appear when thrashing is completed will be highly satisfactory.

With the widely varying weather conditions that have prevailed in the different sections of the prairie provinces it would be impossible to forecast with any degree of accuracy as to how the crop is made. The Manitoba crop has held its own, and the outlook for the province as a whole is decidedly good.

Southwestern Manitoba will reap a harvest which will nearly equal the bumper harvest of 1915. Farmers in the district are very optimistic. The rye crop is exceptionally good; many fields will yield upwards of 30 bushels per acre. The fields are remarkably free of weeds, and the grasshopper menace, which has been evident in the southwestern portion of the province for the past three years, has been almost entirely obliterated. No damage has been done to the wheat crop by rust, and the oats crop will average more than 60 bushels to the acre.

In Saskatchewan there are large areas where the crops are excellent. In places where the prospects some few weeks ago were not encouraging, material change for the better is apparent. In these places unusually dry weather during a portion of the growing season kept the crops back, but what was most remarkable was the effect that the spring moisture had. While light in some places, this moisture kept sufficient strength in the growing crops to ensure a fair yield of a good quality of grain. This condition arises in the mid-central districts of the province.

The southern portions of the province have been exceptionally favored, reports showing that the yield of all grains will be wonderfully good. The crops of all Saskatchewan are a week or ten days later than those of Manitoba.

Conditions in Alberta are said to be good, especially in southern Alberta, where copious and plentiful showers came in time to give assurance of good paying yields. This applies to nearly all sections of that district.

Northern Alberta, or at least that portion of it lying within thirty miles of Edmonton, has suffered from lack of moisture, a very unusual thing for that district, where there is generally an abundance. As a result, the heavy yields of wheat, oats and barley for which the district is noted will show considerable falling off over past years. The grain, though, is of excellent quality and the yield will be fair.

Pasture is poor, and the hay crop will fall short of that of any previous year for an extended period.

On the whole, the prairie provinces of Western Canada will have a crop that will warrant the statement that it will prove satisfactory and remunerative.

A number of farmers put in corn this year, and from present appearances there is a likelihood of an abundant yield for fodder and ensilage, while a good deal of it will fully mature. A number of silos were erected this season. While grain growing is losing none of its interest, it is highly pleasing to note the number of farmers who are adding dairying to the grain growing industry.—Advertiser.

Bobbed Hair May Cause Baldness.
The fearful prospect of a nation of baldheaded women following in the wake of the bobbed hair craze has divided Washington beauty parlors into two bitter camps, while in the distance rumbles the thunder of an impending curling-iron war.

When hair is bobbed, it is explained, a tight hat usually is worn through which air does not reach the scalp, and which retards the growth of the hair.

In fact, it has been solemnly affirmed that the crowning glory, starved for ventilation, frequently gives up the battle and falls out.

What Did He Mean?
An Indianapolis newspaper mar stood trembling before his friends. He had just been married.

"But why did you go to Chicago to be married?" Inquired one of the tormentors.

"Well, you see," he stammered, "I enlisted in the World war in Chicago."

A Quick Thinker.
"Sam," said Mr. Grabco to his office boy, "you told me you had an engagement with your dentist yesterday afternoon."

"I—er—did, sir."

"I saw you at the ball game."

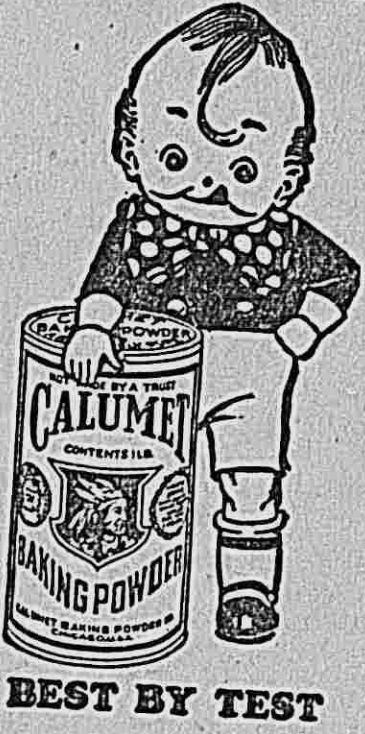

"Yes, sir. The tall, thin gentleman sitting right next to me was my dentist."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

With Ice Cream Cone in Sight, it Must Be Conceded That Betty Withdrew Gracefully.
Betty, who is four, had been scolded by auntie for some misdemeanor, and her feelings were badly hurt. She kept referring to the matter and saying to auntie: "All right for you, I don't care about you any more."
"Finally auntie retorted: 'Well, all right for you, then. If you don't care about me any more I won't need to get you that ice cream cone I intended to buy you.'"
Betty looked abashed for a moment. She did not wish to unbind so far as to accept a bribe, but she disliked to lose that ice cream cone.
Then her face brightened with a happy thought. "Oh—uh—April fool!" she said triumphantly.—Detroit Free Press.

Pride and Vanity.

I would much rather fight pride than vanity, because pride has a stand-up way of fighting. You know where it is. It throws its black shadow on you, and you are not at a loss here to strike. But vanity is that elusive, that insectivorous, that multi-faceted feeling; and men that fight vanity are like men that fight wiles and buttermilk. It is easier to chase them than to hit them.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Early Struggles Beneficial.

You can't always tell what's in a lad from knowing his start. Many a poor family has worth in it that only hard problems can develop. When the time comes such children of fortune will arise and earn what fate has been reluctant to bestow. And often straitened circumstances in early life bring untold fitness later. The struggle to succeed develops habit that remains dynamic through life.—Grit.

Why Cowboy Wore a Handkerchief.

The handkerchief which encircles every cowboy's neck was intended as a mask for occasional uses, not as an article of dress. As the wearer rode in behind a bunch of moving live stock, the still knotted handkerchief's broadest part was pulled up over the wearer's mouth and nose. The mask thus formed eliminated the otherwise suffocating dust and made breathing possible.—P. H. Rollins in "The Cowboy."

Blotting Paper for Cleaning Machines.

The use of blotting paper for cleaning machinery has been common for years. The Germans were among the first to employ this method. It is said to be not only cheaper, but does not soil the machine with fibers and dust like some cloth does. It is not as combustible as some other cleaning materials, and is safer because it caught in the machinery it tears easily and is not as liable to draw the hands of the operator into danger.

Remained Faithful to Early Love.

The heart of the great American story writer, Washington Irving, was buried in the grave of the beautiful girl to whom he had given it, when consumption took her from him in her seventeenth year.
